Minister blaming all but himself for NEET mess: Rahul

LIZ MATHEW
New Delhi, July 22

A UNITED OPPOSITION used the alleged irregularities in the NEET-UG exam to take on the Centre on Monday, the first day of the Budget Session of Parliament, with Leader of the Opposition Rahul Gandhi saying there was a “serious issue” with the examination system in the country.

During Question Hour, after the Opposition staged a walk-out over Union minister for education Dharmendra Pradhan’s statement claiming that there was no evidence of paper leak in the last seven years, Speaker Om Birla suggested that members should discuss developing a better examination system in the country.

Besides Gandhi, Samajwadi Party leader Akhilesh Yadav and the DMK’s Kalanidhi Veeraswamy questioned the government over the issue.

Gandhi, who led the charge, said: “It is obvious to the whole country that there is a serious issue with the examinations in the country. The minister blamed everyone but himself. I don’t even think he understands the fundamentals of what is going on here... The issue is there are millions of students in this country who are extremely concerned.”

Gandhi added: “Every student in this country thinks, we in the Opposition also think, that if you are rich, you can buy the Indian examination system. As this is a systemic issue, what exactly are you doing to fix this issue at the systemic level?”

Congress Lok Sabha MP Hibi Eden said data showed 70 instances of paper leaks in 15 states in the last seven years. Calling it the “biggest scam”, he sought a high-level committee to probe the conduct of all competitive exams.

Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi, speaking during Question Hour on Monday, said there are “serious issues” in the examination system

Statements point to leak on exam eve, no proof to show it spread: SC

THE SUPREME COURT on Monday said the initial statements of some of the accused arrested in the NEET-UG case indicated that a “leak” may have occurred on the night of May 4, on the eve of the exam, but no evidence had been placed before it so far to establish that the breach was widespread, so as to warrant cancellation of the exam.

The SC also directed the director of the Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi, to set up a committee of three experts “to formulate an opinion on the correct option” to a multiple choice question in the exam, for which marks were awarded for two options. The SC sought a report on the correct answer by Tuesday noon.

“All first statements seem to indicate that the leak takes place on the night of the May 4,” said Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud, presiding over a three-judge Bench, adding that the question was whether the breach was confined to Hazaribagh and Patna, or spread to other states as well.

this centre?” Senior RSP MP N K Premachandran asked the government to constitute a joint parliamentary committee to probe the issue.

Pradhan said there had been a “single incident” in Patna of paper leak during the NEET-UG held on May 5, and maintained the Centre had “nothing to hide”.

Chief economic adviser V Anantha Nageswaran on Monday said monetary policy is a short-run macro aggregate demand management tool, which can’t manage supply-side food shocks. The Economic Survey has put the idea of excluding food from inflation targeting of the Reserve Bank of India for a debate, Nageswaran said addressing media queries on the survey. Edited excerpts by FE’s Prasanta Sahu.

If private investment continues to be weak, how do you expect jobs will be created?

Private sector capital formation has picked up in the last three years. Investment in machinery, equipment and intellectual property products have recovered more in the last two years. (However), the private sector may be a risk factor. If you have seen the excess capacity in China and the way the global environment is evolving, if the private sector were to turn cautious, the private sector capital formation growth rate may slow down. The private sector needs to do its bit in the middle to get employment to the level that could be required for the increasing workforce.

You said corporate sector should be mindful that AI impact on jobs...

We don’t know whether AI will take away a lot of jobs or not. Jobs related to business process outsourcing in the short run may be under threat, but AI might actually turn out to be a job booster, complementing to labour in higher-skilled jobs. We need to be mindful of the possibilities, and we need to make sure that as we deploy AI, we also prepare the population to be able to participate in it by redesigning curriculum, by creating in-house courses, etc, to make them AI employable and AI compatible.

SPECULATIVE TRADING IN FUTURES AND OPTIONS IS NOT EXACTLY BENEFITING HOUSEHOLDS OR THE PURPOSE OF CAPITAL FORMATION IN THE ECONOMY

The survey seems to have rooted for targeting inflation without food. With more than 40% of the CPI outside any targeting framework, can it really be called an inflation targeting framework as large and persistent food shocks can spill over to non-food segment also?

I would say that these are very fair questions. If you look at monetary policy, it is a short-run macro aggregate demand management tool, not a tool to manage aggregate short-term supply and food shocks that are predominantly supply shocks. So, it’s a bit unfair to burden a central bank with controlling inflation when it contains a component that is not under its control. So, if I have given a target over which I have no control and I’m in the private sector, I would be talking to my management and saying, I can’t do anything about it as it requires somebody else to pitch in. That somebody else also has other considerations and stakeholders to consider. This issue is not peculiar to India. Many other countries are also debating whether they should target headline or core inflation. As we become $7 trillion or 10 trillion economy, the share of food will come down, and then the distinction between headline inflation and core inflation will disappear.

So, for a large developing economy with a huge share of food item, even though it has come down over the years, it is a very relevant question to raise.

Are you suggesting a relook at the China Plus One strategy?

I’m asking for re-examination. A balance is required between importing goods and importing capital. Brazil and Turkey banned the import of vehicles, but then they incentivized them (the Chinese) to invest in their own country. We have a large trade imbalance with China. So it’s a question of choosing the right balance between importing on a trade route and importing on a capital route.

What is your view on increasing retail participation in the equity market?

The participation of retail investors in the capital market has actually created a very good buffer for Indian markets in general, given an additional saving option or additional deployment of savings for our households in the last four years. So, capital market participation by retail investors is a very healthy and a very welcome thing. Speculative trading in futures and options are not exactly benefiting households or the purpose of capital formation in the economy.

How can low greenium in India’s sovereign green bonds be addressed?

The greenium (premium for green bonds) is an issue that plagues all green bond issuances across the world. It is not that something is lacking in India’s offering. We have a very high green rating. Greenium for India is fairly of the same order that you will find elsewhere as well. It is only going to improve.
